Good Evening!

It won't be long — autumn leaves.

Already the goldenrod and the corn are providing the portents.

Phillies drop a toughie to the Braves but you can't expect them to win 'em all.

Just come out ahead in the series, we say, and everything will be dandy. They're still a fourth place club and that's where they'll be perched when the season is finished.

A real comprehensive and down-to-earth report on projected port facilities for this upper Delaware Valley region it was by expert Walter Hedden and it should form the basis for serious thinking about this immense project.

We trust Congressman Curtin is leaving nothing undone to get Congressional approval of enabling legislation for the Joint Toll Bridge Commission. He probably realizes as does everybody else that Department of Commerce objection is a bit of politics at its worst.

President Kennedy and turn-back-the-clocker Barry Goldwater real chummy at a friendly White House meeting yesterday.

Mr. President can afford to relax. Senator Goldwater really a nice fellow — his biggest trouble is that he's a century back of the times and his biggest gallery is the Bircher set, representing everything inimical to the better interests of the U.S.A.

Fair and warmer today, says the man, and a pleasant weekend all the way.

We've still got a hunch we'll be having the usual September heat wave before you start burning the leaves.

A square is a guy who has never been around.

You can say this for those ready mixes. The next generation isn't going to have any trouble making cakes like mother used to make.

A lot of people are like buttons — always popping off at the wrong time.

Drive carefully during the weekend, please.

Go to church tomorrow.

Bensalem Parents Vow No School For Pupils

Road Hazard Cited

By PAUL ALTAIRE
Courier-Times Staff Writer

An angry group of some two dozen parents in the Newport and Newportville Roads area in Bensalem will not permit their children to go to school Monday unless the highway department does something about the condition of Creek Road.

The road which the children must use to reach pickup points of the school bus is a quagmire of mud due to building of a new bridge across the Neshaminy Creek.

As early as mid-summer, the parents contacted the highway department and pointed out that the road, which becomes slick and dangerous to drive on in rainy weather, would present a problem when the school season begins.

Bensalem School District Transportation Coordinator William Stinger told the parents it would be ridiculous to try to send a school bus through that road.

Stinger was quoted as saying, "If cars can't make it up the hill — how can we take a chance with a school bus load of children."

Tullytown Calls Meeting 'Off'

Tullytown Borough Council will not hold a special meeting on zoning this month, Solicitor Stanley R. Rutkowski announced yesterday.

Instead, Rutkowski said, the proposed zoning code will be taken up by council at its regular monthly meeting, Monday, Sept. 16.

Rutkowski was instructed by council last month to set a date for a special zoning meeting. However, he found when legal requirements of a 15-day interval were met after advertising of the code, the special meeting would almost coincide with the September meeting.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rosary will be recited Monday night for Spanish-born actress-singer Margarita Sierra, vivacious "Cha-Cha O'Brien" of television's "Surfside 6" series.

The rosary will be in the chapel of Cunningham & O'Connor Mortuary here and will be followed Tuesday morning by a Requiem Mass at St. Cyril's Church in nearby Encino.

Miss Sierra died Friday in St. Vincent's Hospital, where she underwent delicate heart surgery Thursday.

Miss Sierra often was compared with Carmen Miranda and Lupe Velez, Latin lovelies who were movie stars during the late 1930s and 1940s.

"But I am not like either of them," she told a UPI reporter

Nationwide Acclaim Millions Watch Pennsbury Band Swing On TV Show

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Among the millions of viewers watching "The Tonight Show" last night were 19 Lower Bucks boys who saw themselves perform on the national television show.

Sitting in their homes with their parents and friends, the young members of the Pennsbury Stage Band watched and listened as Johnny Carson, "Tonight" host, called them a "pretty good swinging group."

The Pennsbury Band, directed by Donald Smith of Levittown, appeared on TV for seven minutes. They went on at 12:07 a.m. and finished playing two numbers at 12:14 a.m. They had taped their portion of the hour and 45-minute TV show some five hours earlier.

Smith, his wife, Jan, and the young musicians made a hurried trip back home after taping the show to be able to see themselves on TV in their own living rooms.

Peak Performance
For the Pennsbury Stage Band last night's appearance on the highly-rated nighttime show marked the peak of their many notable achievements during the year.

Prior to last night the band had been wildly acclaimed after a 40-minute performance at the Newport, R. I., Jazz Festival; it "shook the tent" at the Lambertville Music Circus while appearing at a jazz concert with Stan Kenton, and it had been the featured group in a jazz concert at the Barn Arts Center in Riverside, N.J.

Carson, in introducing the band on TV, called it a "pretty good swinging group." He referred to it as the "Pennsbury Stage Band from Pennsbury, Pa." The high school is actually in Lower Makefield Township.

"The Tonight" host told viewers that his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sotzing of 77 Sweetgum Road, Snowball Gate, Levittown, had told him about "this great band."

Average Age
Smith, who first organized a stage band at Pennsbury seven years ago, told Carson the average age of the group "is an old 16". He also told Carson that eight of the boys have gone off to college with five majoring in music. Actually, the 1963 edition of the band lost nine boys by graduation, Smith confessed in an early morning interview today.

The band's two selections for the national TV audience were "Too Close For Comfort" and "I Remember You."

A pair of saxophonists, John Byzek and Garry Miner, were caught by the cameras in solo renditions during the brief, but brilliant performance.

Trouble Seen For Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate's two leading authorities on military affairs have come out against the nuclear test ban treaty, indicating that ratification of the pact may be opposed more by Democrats than Republicans.

Administration hopes for minimum opposition to the treaty were dimmed Friday by the announcements of two key southern senators that they would vote against it. The Senate takes up the treaty Monday.

Both Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the armed services committee, and Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who heads the preparedness subcommittee, said concern over possible military disadvantages of the treaty prompted their decisions.

A UPI poll of other members of the armed services committee showed two senators in favor of ratification, three undecided and one undecided by leaning toward ratification.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, were in favor of the treaty: Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., and J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., said they had not made up their minds yet, though Beall said he planned to announce his stand next week.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said he wanted to hear all the closing arguments on the question before making a final decision, but added he had heard nothing so far to cause him to vote against the treaty.

Stennis' fellow Mississippian, Democrat James O. Eastland, said he also would oppose the treaty, which bans all but underground nuclear tests. But Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., Russell's junior colleague, told United Press International he had not yet made up his mind on the matter.

Two other southerners, Sens. J. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Russell B. Long, D-La., also are expected to oppose the treaty. Long cast the only vote against it in the foreign relations committee but said he reserved the right to change his mind.

'Vote Buying' Probe Ending

The Pennsylvania State Police, the district attorney's office, and the Middletown Township Police department, it was disclosed last night, will reveal at a public supervisor's meeting Wednesday the results of their joint investigation into alleged attempted graft charges of township officials.

The joint investigation began last Thursday after Walter S. Farley Jr., township supervisor and Democratic candidate for county commissioner, issued a statement in which he said "for some months I have known of an attempt to sell the vote of a member of the board..."

Supervisors, last night, at a regular caucus meeting scheduled Wednesday for the report.

Drum And Bugle Corps Strut In Bristol Tonight

Five crack junior drum and bugle corps from three states will compete tonight for over $1,200 in prizes at the 14th annual Eastern States championships.

The event will be held under the lights at Bristol High School.

Wilson Ave. and Garfield St., at 8 o'clock.

In addition to the five competing corps, the host Bracken Cavaliers Junior Drum and Bugle Corps will perform in exhibition at the conclusion of the program.

Competing for top prize of $300 and the Murray C. Hotchkiss Trophy, given by the executive vice president and co-publisher of the Courier - Times, will be the Woodsider Cadets of Newark, N. J.; the American Legion Little Devils of Bordentown, N.J.; Golden Buccaneers of Bridgeport, Conn.; St. Patrick's Cadets of Newark, N.J., and the Long Island Junior Drum and Bugle Corps.

In addition to first prize, other cash awards to be presented will be $300 for second, $250 for third, $200 for fourth and $175 for fifth.

Guests of honor at the competition will include Bristol Borough Mayor James M. Nealis and Art Grimes, commander of Robert W.

Bracken American Legion Post 382, sponsor of the Bracken Cavaliers.

The bands will be introduced by J. J. Hetherington, publicity officer for the Bracken post.

Judging for the contest will be done by the National Judges Association. Competing corps will be judged on marching and maneuvering, drumming, bugling and general effect. Each corps will perform for not more than 13 minutes and not less than 11.

Proposed Site

This is the proposed site of a port facility to be located in Tullytown, as recommended by Walter P. Hedden, N.Y. port consultant to the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission yesterday.

Legislation Drive Started To Build Port Facilities

A move to spearhead completion of proposed port plans and push legislation through Congress granting the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission in Morrisville the power to build port facilities was initiated yesterday.

Officials meeting in Morrisville set into motion a plan to create a bi-state committee for port development on the Delaware River, following the release of the Walter P. Hedden feasibility report.

Hedden, a N.Y. port consultant, made public his seven-month long port feasibility report at the commission meeting. In this report, Hedden recommended a three-terminal construction program for port development along the Delaware River.

3-Point Program

The three-point program would include building a port terminal near Tullytown in Bucks, enlarging and modernizing the present Trenton Marine Terminal and building a port terminal below the Pennsylvania Turnpike bridge in Burlington.

Although officials of the bi-state bridge agency said they felt the commission was not the proper agency to organize a committee, they began taking names of those local interested officials present, with the intentions of forming such a committee.

Among other things, the committee would attempt to start a concerted effort toward obtaining public support for needed legislation, which is now before a Congressional Subcommittee in Washington. They hope to start a letter-writing campaign to gain support from congressmen when legislation comes up for adoption.

2 Bills Prepared

Presently, two bills are being aired before a house subcommittee which were introduced jointly by Congressman Willard S. Curtin of Bucks - Lehigh and Cong. Frank Thompson of Burlington-Mercer counties.

Legislation would grant the bridge commission the power to go into the port development business, since it now has only the power to build and operate bridges.

This move to form a committee, which would be made up of representatives of civic and chamber of commerce groups from Pennsylvania and New Jersey, was prompted by a similar committee which was in existence several years ago.

Mayor Arthur J. Holland of Trenton cited the old committee, which was the bi-state committee for deepening the Delaware River, it was formed three years ago to have the river dredged and deepened.

William P. Henwood, past chairman of the Bucks County Port Feasibility Committee, summed up the feelings when he said, "Let's not just accept the Hedden report, and then let George do it. Let's all be Georges and get the needed ports for Bucks, Mercer and Burlington counties."

Pennsbury Stage Band On TV Show

the minimum pay scale of $320, was "quite a job" according to Smith.

Smith and his wife Jan, who live at 68 Emerald Lane, Elderberry Pond, Levittown, left Pennsbury High by bus with the 19 bandmen at 10 a.m. yesterday.

See Sights

After arriving in New York about 12:30 p.m., the boys spent a few hours taking in the sights of the world's third largest city.

At 4 p.m. the band began rehearsals for the show in NBC's studios in Rockefeller Center. The rehearsal, at which Carson was present, lasted until 5:15.

Smith said the scene at the rehearsal was "casual and orderly with the usual amount of confusion."

After dinner, the 19 boys and Smith then went into Studio B on the sixth floor of Rockefeller Center to begin taping the show at 7:30 p.m. Smith explained it was the same studio in which Jack Paar and other top performers tape their shows.

300 In Audience

About 300 persons were in the audience during the taping of the show which lasted until 9:15 p.m. Smith said the boys were apprehensive about not being together long enough. He explained this by noting that the first time the group got together in over a month was Thursday night.

Some of the boys have gone off to college, others have moved to as far away as Hagerstown, Md. "Getting them together was quite a problem," he remarked.

The director said the boys seemed to be a bit "extra nervous" since "The Tonight Show" was the "biggest coverage our band has had."

When the band finished rehearsing, comedienne Phyllis Diller came in to tape her portion of last night's show which preceded Pennsbury's performance. "Things start happening when she comes in," Smith remarked.

Await Show

Following the rehearsal the boys arrived home about 10:30 p.m. and anxiously awaited to see themselves on TV.

Smith said their stint was scheduled for six minutes, but ran an extra minute due to conversation.

Doc Severison, who's filling in for vacationing orchestra leader Skitch Henderson, gave the Pennsbury band a brief buildup at the outset of the TV show.

Mrs. Sotzing contacted Carson about the band after seeing the group perform at the recent County Fair Days held in the Fairless Hills Shopping Center. The drummer and trumpet player in Henderson's orchestra had seen the band perform at the Newport Jazz Festival and put in an additional good word to Carson.

Band Members

Members of the stage band include:

Saxophones — Joseph Stoddard, Gary Miner, Steve Speiser, Mahlon Fisel, John Byzek; Trombones — Dick Fein, Bill Condon, Ted Edge and his brother, Bruce; Tubas — Dick Bavier; Trumpets — Jim Graham, Joel White, Bob Kieger, Tom Greene, Dave Auge; Rhythm Section — John Van Osten, guitar; John Frazer, bongos; Frank Zuback, bass, and Glen Seruby, drums.

The entire rhythm section is lost by graduation as are Stoddard, Speiser, Fein, Graham and White.

Smith is already re-building the stage band for 1964. He's having tryouts at 7 p.m. Monday at Pennsbury High School.

Looking back on the hectic but highly successful season, Smith said "after our first performance in early September of 1962 we thought there was a potential here."

Noting that high school bands play poorly and well, he said "this one played exceptionally well on many occasions."

High Praise

The band director had nothing but high praise for the likes of Carson, Kenton and Maynard Ferguson. "We met, talked with and worked with some of the finest people in the profession," he stated.

As for Carson, Smith said "he's really a human being." And "The Tonight Show" is a No. 1 attraction, attested by the fact that the tickets for the show have all been grabbed up through mid-November.

ago, and was told the matter would be looked into.

By yesterday, however, nothing had been done to improve the condition. The Haverford office, in a telephone conversation, said its field engineer had been advised of the situation several weeks ago and had promised that a walk would be erected which the children could use. This, however, has not been done.

In addition to the school children's problem, motorists yesterday found it impossible to travel upon the road.

Given Assistance

One woman, who is expecting a baby, offered to do the shopping for a husband and wife who because of ill health are not permitted to drive.

The woman managed to reach the couple's home but was unable to drive back up the road after rain started early in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Del Buono of 5583 Creek Road, the couple for whom the shopping was done, said, "We don't know how this woman is going to get home — or what to do if she suddenly has to go to the hospital."

Mrs. Henry Christiansen of 5563 Creek Road, said she and her husband had just come home in a milk truck. The truck spun completely around in a skid, they said.

"It's so bad that cars can't even get up the hill. If there should be a fire in this neighborhood, I don't know how the fire engines could get here."

ville - Fallsington Road, near Five Points, from 2 to 9 p.m.

Monday, the registrars will sit in the Fairless Hills Shopping Center from 2 to 9 p.m.

On Tuesday, they will be at the Pennel Borough Municipal Building, 300 Bellevue Ave., Pennel, and the Lacey Park School on Jacksonville Road in Warminster Township.

The schedule for the rest of the week:

Wednesday, Lower Makefield Township Municipal Building, Edgewood Road, and the Wrightstown Elementary School, Wrightstown and Penns Park.

Thursday, Lower Southampton Township Elementary School.

Friday, Upper Southampton Township Fire Co., Street Road.

Saturday, Middletown Township Municipal Building, Route 413, and Upper Makefield Township Municipal Building, Woodhill and Eagle Roads.

Local Girl In Teen Finals

Pretty Rae Felter of Levittown is anxiously awaiting tonight's final judging in the National Miss America Teenager contest.

Last night Miss Felter was selected as Miss Pennsylvania Teenager at Palisades Amusement Park, Palisades Park, N.J. and will join 49 other contestants seeking the coveted crown tonight.

Miss Felter, a 13-year-old freshman at Bishop Egan High School, Levittown, entered the contest which puts the emphasis on beauty, party dresses, figure, charm, poise and personality.

The five-foot six-inch Miss Felter, who has brown hair and matching eyes, lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric W. Felter at 26 Lilac Lane, Lakeside. The Philadelphia - born Miss Felter is the oldest of five girls.

Red Cross Dinner Set

A pageant of Red Cross volunteers wearing uniforms illustrating the organization's colorful international history will be featured during the seventh annual dinner meeting of the Lower Bucks County Chapter of the Red Cross on Sept. 26.

The dinner-meeting, the only meeting of all local Red Cross officials and volunteers open to the public, is anticipated to attract upwards of 500 persons in the Fountain Room, The Buck Hotel, Feasterville.

A social hour with music provided by Peg and Paul of Central Melody will precede the dinner.

Award Set

After the dinner, the Red Cross National Award endorsed by President Alfred M. Grunther and Volunteer Chairman E. Roland Harriman will be presented to Willie C. Henwood, outgoing local chapter chairman.

Sandy Oppenheimer, managing editor of the Courier-Times who is the new chapter chairman, will present Henwood with the award.

Narration for the pageant will be by Tom Early, Radio Station WBCB.

Pageant volunteers will wear uniforms from the World War I era and also display uniforms of the future as they see them.

Three Cars, Truck Crash

Two persons miraculously escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon in a spectacular multiple crash on Route 1, near Reedman Motors.

Middletown Township police reported that three cars and a tractor-trailer were involved in the mishap at 2:20 p.m.

Lawrence Bequette, 18, of 32 Quill Road, Quincey Hollow, Levittown, and Fidele Locasale, 35, of 15016 Milford St., Philadelphia, were taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital by the Levittown - Fairless Hills Rescue Squad for treatment and released.

Bequette, thrown from his auto, suffered possible concussion, scalp lacerations and lacerations of the left elbow. Locasale was treated for lacerations of the chin, bruises and abrasions of the leg and hands.

Bequette's 1963 auto and a car driven by Frederick Weber, 30, of 21 Butternut Road, Blue Ridge, Levittown, were traveling west on Route 1.

Bequette's vehicle, police reported, ran into the rear of Weber's car, and sent it across the highway into a gas station on the opposite side of the road. Fortunately Weber's car did not run into anything else.

Bequette's auto, however, went into the path of an oncoming station wagon operated by Locasale. Bequette's car spun around and faced the opposite direction, side by side with Weber's. Suddenly a tractor-trailer, operated by Thomas Cheatham, 42, of 4128 Salem St., Philadelphia, came along and drove in between the two cars, spreading them apart several feet.

Patrolman Norbert Banach charged Bequette with driving too fast for conditions.

Damages to the vehicles were estimated at $600 to Locasale's station wagon, $150 to the truck, $150 to Weber's car while Bequette's new auto was a total wreck.
